Pine House

Step out onto the balcony with a morning coffee and take in a view of the Rocky Mountains. This home's design makes the most of its picturesque location, with enormous windows and a semi-shaded terrace perfect for watching the sun go down over the slopes. We love the pairing of a traditional exterior with a more modern interior - enjoy cooking at the island in the bright light-wood kitchen in the mornings, or socialising around a meal at the dining table under the chandelier. In the summertime, walk to Boulder Creek Path for hiking and biking trails amongst the area's stunning scenery. Alternatively, wander downtown for excellent bars, restaurants and coffee shops. Come winter, you'll want to explore the nearby ski resorts and make the most of Colorado's famous powder before cosying up in front of the fire and switching on the smart TV.
